

The first night at the station. Half the job tonight is teaching them where to stand.

ON THE GROUND

- 12 cones, six lanes, 15 metres
- Hurls down for now

Set it up before the first group arrives and leave it for all three.

Six lanes 15 metres long, with a cone at each end

0 to 2 Wake up game: sprint to the nearest cone

- They jog inside the grid with their hands empty.
- Shout "cone". Every boy sprints to the nearest of the twelve cones, stops beside it, and jogs again.
- Five goes. Move yourself about so the nearest cone keeps changing.

2 to 10 Movement: two starts

- Six lanes, four boys to a lane, one wave goes on every whistle.
- Standing start. "Feet apart, one foot in front, lean until you have to run."
- Rolling start. They jog five metres, and on the whistle they sprint the rest.
- Six waves of each. Walk back down the outside of the lane, never down the middle.

10 to 17 Challenge game: standing race

- Pairs of roughly the same size, one pair to a lane, both in a standing start.
- On the whistle they race ten metres. Ten races, a new partner each time.
- Everybody walks back before the next race. Nobody races out of breath.
- Nothing written down and no winners announced.

Coach one thing: The first step goes forward, not up.

- Boys who bounce upright before they run. They have wasted a step.
- Heels lifting as he sets his feet. Move his feet a bit wider.

Lashing rain. Everything here works in the wet. Keep them off the ground.
