

Last night of the theme, a match in two days, and nothing new gets taught.

ON THE GROUND

- 12 cones, six lanes, 15 metres
- A hurl each, 12 bibs

Set it up before the first group arrives and leave it for all three.

Six lanes 15 metres long, with a cone at each end

0 to 2 Wake up game: tails

- Twelve boys tuck a bib into the back of their shorts so most of it hangs out. The rest have no tail.
- The boys without a tail chase and try to take one. A boy who takes a tail wears it.
- A boy who loses his tail does ten fast steps on the spot, then goes hunting for another. Swap nobody, it sorts itself out. Two minutes.

2 to 11 Movement: four sprints with a hurl

- Six waves of six over 15 metres with a hurl, at whatever pace they like.
- Full rest between. Walk back, breathe, go again.
- Stand at the finish line and watch the arms. Say nothing.

11 to 17 Finish: free sprints, then in

- Four free waves at whatever pace each boy likes.
- Walk them in with two minutes left.
- Ask three boys: "What do your arms do when you run fast?"
- Tell them the theme changes on Tuesday and it is stopping.

Coach one thing: Nothing. Find out whose arms have changed since Tuesday.

- Any boy whose knees roll inwards when he runs. Note his name for the stopping theme, because it is the same fault.

Lashing rain. No change.
